SETTING & DESCRIPTION

An impressive and sophisticated Country property set in just under 4 acres of gardens including designated walled garden area and Victorian greenhouse. A further pasture bound by attractive woodland and being just over 5 acres lies to the front of this dwelling maintaining its spectacular setting and countryside outlook.

Access to the property is via a private wooded tarmac lane, being in excellent order, providing access to adjoining farmland and Glanolmarch only.

The house was completed in 1885 and designed by George Morgan of Carmarthen for J W Stephens. Constructed of coursed Cilgerran stone with Bath stone dressings and steep slate roofs with crested ridges and corniced chamfered stone stacks. The property is set across 3 floors with cellar.

Internally, impressive wooden doors to vestibule with stained glass panels to the inner door sets, feature staircase with stained glass window dated 1885 JWS. The main hallway and West Drawing Room feature original pitch pine ceilings while the Formal Drawing Room has ceilings panelled in plaster between moulded timber ribs being part of the original features.

The property offers a wonderful opportunity as a continuing family home with opportunities for multi-generational living but also as an attractive potential for income earning as a guest house or Airbnb accommodation or home office.

The second floor, currently used as a gun room and attic space provides a wonderful opportunity to provide additional accommodation or for self contained units (stc).

All in all, a unique and stunning period residence.

The village of Llechryd offers an excellent range of local facilities and amenities including a village shop, primary school, places of worship, village hall, petrol station, post office, fish and chip shop, public houses and excellent public transport connectivity - all within walking distance of this fabulous property.
