STAMFORD

Barley Ridge Gardens is situated within walking distance of Stamford town centre. There you'll find plentiful amenities like supermarkets (including an M&S and Waitrose), pubs, restaurants – including Chinese, Italian and traditional British cuisine, and an abundance of local cafés and shops, alongside national brands such as Boots and Caffe Nero.

Every Friday, a market of over 90 traders offer artisan crafts, flowers, fresh produce and more.

A picturesque town, with the famous The George hotel, Stamford has recently been named in the Sunday Times as one of the best places to live in Britain due to its stunning architecture and community spirit.

Live life your way

If you like the Arts, Stamford Arts Centre, hosts theatre, cinema, live music, poetry and exhibitions, plus the Stamford Corn Exchange Theatre hosts a variety of live shows. For history lovers, you might choose to explore Browne's Hospital – a beautifully preserved medieval almshouse founded in 1475 or Easton Walled Gardens, just 15 minutes from Stamford, is a restored 12-acre garden offering a peaceful escape with wildflower meadows, winding paths, and a tearoom serving tasty treats.

Beyond the delights of the countryside right on your doorstep, Burghley House and Park offers a slice of history, just a 5 minute drive away. Rutland Water Country Park can be reached in around 15 minutes – a large reservoir, it's an ideal spot for walking and wildlife.

Stamford station is just a mile away from Barley Ridge Gardens, with direct routes to Birmingham New Street and Peterborough, which links to the East Coast line to London and onward to Scotland. By car, Peterborough is just 15 miles away and Leicester 32 miles away.
