The Situation

Nestled in the rural hamlet of Linwood, this land is positioned in the heart of the New Forest National Park. The elevated (High Corner) approach roads offer far reaching views and this exceptional location offers direct access to thousands of acres of natural heath and woodland, making it an ideal setting for enthusiasts of riding. Adding to the locale's charm is the proximity to the popular 'High Corner Inn', offering fine dining and accommodation. Within walking distance is the 'Red Shoot Inn', famed for its own brewery and within riding distance is "the Royal Oak' at Fritham, which remains totally original.

Directional Note

Exit Ringwood along the A338 Ringwood to Fordingbridge road. After about two miles turn right signposted to Linwood. This road will take you over a cattle grid and you bear right over a humped back bridge and then you turn left. Continue along this road which will take you to Linwood. Go through this small hamlet passing the Red Shoot and then down a hill and up again and then you bear left and continue along this road looking out for the signpost to the High Corner Inn. Turn left onto the gravel track and continue down the hill, about 100 metres before you reach the pub on your left is a track leading down to the entrance to the fields
