Lower Dean is a charming hamlet on the Cambridgeshire/Bedfordshire/Northamptonshire border. It is separated from the village of Upper Dean by delightful open countryside and can be found approximately 4 miles to the west of Kimbolton. Upper Dean boasts a Public House, Eileen Wade Lower School and a Parish Church. The village is in the catchment area for Margaret Beaufort Middle School and Sharnbrook Upper School. Upper Dean also features excellent sporting and recreational facilities with all-weather tennis courts, cricket pitch and a sports pavilion which a playgroup uses.

Nearby, the historic market town of Kimbolton boasts one of the area's leading private schools, Kimbolton School, along with the well-regarded Kimbolton Primary Academy. The High Street boasts a variety of shops and eateries, supermarket, doctor and dentist surgeries, chemist with post office, garage, public house and St Andrews church. Conveniently situated for road and rail use, main routes such as the A1, the newly upgraded A14 and the A428 are all within easy reach, with nearby Bedford, Huntingdon and St Neots offering mainline stations and a commuter service to London. East Midlands, London Luton and London Stansted are all just over an hour away.
