LOCATION

Galhampton is a picturesque village tucked into the heart of rural South Somerset. With a population of around 400, it offers a tranquil countryside setting surrounded by rolling fields, grazing livestock, and a strong sense of community. The village features a delightful chapel, a popular local pub, and a modern village hall that hosts regular events and gatherings throughout the year—including the well-loved annual village fête in July.

Just two miles north lies Castle Cary, a charming market town that serves as a key transport hub for the region. Castle Cary railway station sits on the main London to Penzance line and the Heart of Wessex line, offering direct services to London Paddington in around two hours, as well as connections to Bristol, Exeter, and Weymouth.

Recent improvements have made travel even easier: a new direct bus service now links Castle Cary station with surrounding villages, including Galhampton, thanks to a dedicated turning area at the station forecourt⁶. This upgrade enhances accessibility for both residents and visitors, making Galhampton an ideal blend of peaceful village life and practical connectivity.

SERVICES

Recently upgraded electric heating throughout. Mains water and drainage are connected. Council tax band D.
