Summary

This magnificent four-storey Victorian townhouse in Crail, built in 1878 as one of five grand residences, enjoys an exceptional elevated position with spectacular sea views across the Firth of Forth. Rich in period character, the impressive home retains elegant fireplaces, ornate corning, and a welcoming hall featuring a beautiful timber staircase. Across four floors, the interiors feature five versatile bedrooms plus multiple reception spaces and bathrooms and outstanding storage including a large basement. Outside, the garden extends towards the coastline, further enhancing the remarkable setting. While now requiring modernisation, this is a rare opportunity to restore a truly distinguished seaside home.
