Finer Details

Offering an open plan concept and stylish interiors, all the apartments have been skilfully designed to maximise space. A private balcony or garden terrace is included in each property, providing a welcomed outside space. Embracing a greener future, Nord Court has been designed with efficiency and sustainability within its fabric, incorporating a highly insulated design. In addition to this each apartment is fitted with a mechanical ventilation heat recovery system to ensure the quality of the air is always maintained. Communal areas are to be partially powered by solar panels placed on the roof, with electric car chargers available along with bike stores for greener mobility.

The modern interiors feature high-end materials and finishes in neutral tones, such as light grey engineered wooden flooring with underfloor heating and contemporary aluminium windows.

Bespoke kitchens, all including breakfast bars will be complemented by matt black accents on fixtures and fittings, for a truly contemporary aesthetic. The majority of flats at Nord court feature a separate home office space, to accommodate a flexible work life balance.

Sustainability

Panyam Estates are committed to improving the environment, whether it be the environment they create within the building or the environment in which the buildings live. The developer believes buildings should have a positive impact on the wellbeing of people and the planet. To ensure that they make this positive impact, they have incorporated this into their design from conception through to construction.

Efficiency

The developer has ensured the efficient use of water, by fitting the building with WCs, taps and shower heads that meet high water efficiency standards. Energy usage is kept to a minimum by creating well insulated buildings, efficient boilers and underfloor heating with individual thermostatic room controls ensure low energy consumption. Excess heat within the building is also recycled by the mechanical ventilation heat recovery unit, providing fresh filtered air. All of the lighting within the building is low energy consuming, solar panels on the roof of Nord Court will also be used to power the communal areas, using nature to create light.

Natural Light

Nord Court has been designed to let natural light into the apartments, all apartments are dual aspect, with a light well created in the middle of the building with a retracting stepped exterior wall as the building ascends. This allows the internal spaces to receive sunlight throughout the day, with natural light having a positive impact on health and wellbeing.

Sustainable Mobility

With close links to public transport Panyam Estates are actively encouraging the use of sustainable transport. With a bike store installed in the communal garden, electric vehicle charging points and great links all within walking distance, they hope to reduce air pollution emitted around Nord Court. Northala Fields being our neighbour promotes walking and an active lifestyle with extensive walking trails and 27.5 hectares of green space.
