Originally built in the 18th century, this elegant dwelling has countless endearing and attractive qualities, typical of its lavish era. These include open feature fireplaces to the living and dining room, high ceilings, Georgian wooden casement & sash windows, with secondary glazing internally to the majority of the windows, and wall mounted butlers bells upon entering the food preparation & dining area.

One of the most attractive features is the incredible reception entrance hall. As you enter you immediately notice extensive exposed beams and the wooden flooring, which leads to staircase and principal ground floor rooms.

The carriageway drive sweeps alongside the front elevation and further leads to a sizable parking area, double garage and space for a boat.

The grounds are approximately just over 0.6 acres and are beautifully kept with a quaint patio area from the living room, extensive lawn and beautiful established trees which neighbours a large field, currently used for grazing cattle.

The front elevation is a fine example of the Bursledon brick work, to other elevations there is red hanging clay tile to the exterior. The majority of the roof is of red clay tile and the property has been modernised with gas fired central heating.

The property was Grade II listed on the 14th February 1983 by Historic England. Source ID 1111972 Legacy System number: 354914
