Grounds & Gardens

The house is a landmark property positioned in the centre of the conservation area being close to the quay in Lymington and having a delightful late Georgian front elevation which is behind iron railings and a low brick wall. Some of the walls that surround the property are formed using clinker from the ballast of the historic ships calling into Lymington from days gone by. There are gates and a path to both sides of the property leading to the rear walled garden. There is also a boiler shed accessed from the front of the property. The parking is positioned on a brick paved driveway behind the wall and next to a property called Coach House. An attractive brick built summer house could be used as a studio/home office. The walled garden is mature and offers a high degree of privacy with a covered pergola attached to the rear of the house for al fresco dining. There is also a newly laid rear decked terrace.
