Situation

Jamaica Street located in the heart of the City Centre a stone's throw from St Enoch's Square. The Square is known for its beautiful architecture and historically significant buildings. The location is a popular destination for tourists and locals due to its proximity to various attractions such as the St Enoch Centre, the Glasgow Gallery of Modern Art, and the Buchanan Galleries Shopping Centre.

The area is well-connected with major transportation links, including bus and subway stations, making it easily accessible. It is also home to several restaurants, cafes, and shops, providing excellent opportunities for shopping and dining. Whether you're a resident of Glasgow or visiting the city, St Enoch Square is a must-visit location packed with culture, history, and modern amenities.

The immediate vicinity of Station House is at the centre of significant change in the City. This includes the consented redevelopment of the former Debenhams department store on Argyle Street which will provide 200,000 sq ft of Grade A offices and a roof top restaurant. The St Enoch Centre is also part of a wider masterplan to "raise the roof" off the Centre and create a new mixed-use open-air quarter providing residential, leisure and retail space. This will link Argyle Street back to the river and the opportunities that will emerge along the river edged over the next few years. Argyle Street is the next phase of the "Avenues & Lanes Project". This will see Argyle Street being reduced in width and traffic restricted to electric bus movements with the emphasis on promoting active travel by bicycle or foot.

Nearby occupiers include Premier Inn, Clayton Hotel and Adagio Aparthotel as well as all of the retail and leisure offering of Buchanan Street, Argyle Street and Glasgow's Merchant City.
