TENURE

LOCATION

The Staffordshire town of Burntwood lies on the edge of Cannock Chase forest 'an area of outstanding natural beauty', boasts the smallest park in Britain and has links to the famous lexicographer Dr. Samuel Johnson who opened an academy in 1736 in the nearby Hamlet of Edial. Providing a perfect environment for growing families Burntwood offers local schooling, excellent leisure facilities at Burntwood Recreation Centre and nearby Chasewater Country park.

The historic city of Lichfield, with its three-spired medieval cathedral is approximately 4 miles away, which offers a more diverse range of shopping and leisure facilities with market square and Garrick Theatre and holds the renowned Arts Festival and Shakespeare in the Park each year. The towns of Stafford and Burton on Trent are also within easy reach with excellent commuter links, as is vibrant Birmingham with its cosmopolitan blend of culture and lively arts scene.
